

Who we are

The American Bio-Recovery Association, established in 1996, has been the vanguard of the biological hazard remediation segment of the remediation industry.

ABRA is an international association of crime scene clean up, trauma scene, hoarding clean up & meth lab clean up recovery professionals who are dedicated to upholding the highest technical, ethical and educational guidelines of the biohazard remediation industry.

Our trusted members of the American Bio-recovery Association (ABRA) are here to help relieve you of the emotional trauma. The Nation's most qualified specialized contractors network is here to provide you and your loved ones peace of mind and relief.

Our mission.

ABRA's objective is "to achieve and maintain the highest levels of competence among members in the performance of their profession. To teach, instill and require the highest technical, ethical and educational standards."

Why ABRA?

Companies and technicians that are certified by ABRA have been properly trained in how to approach a horrific and graphic scene. By using ABRA certified companies' property owners and managers can also have the peace of mind in the fact that the situation is being cleaned properly by a person or company that has put the time and investment into training, education, and supplies.

OSHA compliant, certified and properly insured.

Another reason to use ABRA trained personnel is the reduction in liability. Diseases and bacteria are a very high potential and a reality in this business. ABRA certified firms are required to show proof of maintaining proper insurance, OSHA compliance, Bloodborne Pathogen training records, respirator fit testing, proper handling of biohazardous waste and other laws or requirements in order to maintain a good standing with the American Bio-Recovery Association aka ABRA.

We provide peace of Mind.

Many owners and property managers have placed their companies in jeopardy by not having proper OSHA and other federal and state requirements in place, resulting in heavy fines and legal fees. Many ABRA companies have standing contracts in-place to speed up and ease worries about paperwork and payment when you need these special services handled quickly.

About ABRA Technicians.

ABRA believes that a strong industry depends on a solid education base. The ABRA Certified Bio-recovery Technician training course is recognized by governments and the insurance industry as the training standard for biohazard abatement.

ABRA Bio-Recovery Technicians are recognized by the logo on arm patches, wallet card and are listed on ABRA's website.

About ABRA Member Companies:

Each member company provides a wide variety of services that spans into the crime scene and chemical-biological decontamination markets. Services and fees vary by company and service.

ABRA doesn't set pricing or procedures for its members. Member companies are independent entities that share the same vision and goal; to relieve the emotional burden, to reduce property owners liability, and to create a safe and healthy environment.
